

The meaning of communication is the response you get.

- Tony Robbins

James Leong Chan Foo – Senior Consultant

James Leong is senior consultant at Clarion Learning and founder and master trainer of Visions.One Consulting Pte Ltd. He brings to his clients and participants more than 18 years of financial, management and training experience. Prior to becoming a professional training consultant, he managed the finance, administration and human resources functions in Asia Pacific for a US Fortune 500 company as regional financial controller. James received his chartered accounting training with KPMG in Singapore and Australia and practised as a certified financial planner with a Manulife Financial. As a chartered accountant, James achieved distinction for achieving the top 5% of results in his professional accounting examinations in Australia.

James is an adjunct professor with National University of Singapore and teaches at the Faculty of Law. He designs and delivers customised training programs for international clients, government ministries and statutory boards. He has facilitated workshops for international participants including senior management from China, Taiwan, Korea, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Thailand, New Zealand, Australia, Dubai, Egypt, South Africa, Europe, UK and USA. His extensive experience in serving diverse clients from both the private and public sectors enable him to clearly understand organisational issues and participants' learning needs in an international and multi-cultural context.

James creates seminars on financial analysis, money management and other management programs including teambuilding, communication and presentation skills. His forte is in making complicated concepts simple, interesting and intuitive for learners. As a result, participants consistently rate his seminars fun, dynamic, learner-centred and highly effective. He is an accredited MBTI Administrator and a certified Master Practitioner in Neuro-Linguistic Programming.

James is Singaporean and lives with his family in Singapore. He is passionate about public speaking and has competed successfully in numerous speech competitions. In the Year 2000, James emerged as Toastmasters International Pan South East Asian Humorous Speech Contest Champion. James speaks English, Mandarin and Cantonese.

To speak with James, call ++65 9673 3693 or e-mail: james.leong@clarionlearning.com.au.